

OPUNTIA

55.2

ISSN 1183-2703

Late September 2004

OPUNTIA is published by Dale Speirs, Box 6830, Calgary, Alberta, Canada, T2P 2E7. It is available for $3 cash for a one-time sample copy, trade for your zine, or letter of comment. Americans: please don't send cheques for small amounts to Canada as the bank fee to cash them is usually more than the amount. US$ banknotes are acceptable in Canada at par value; what we gain on the exchange rate we lose on the higher postage rate to USA. Do not send mint USA stamps as they are not valid for postage outside USA and I don't collect them.

Whole-numbered OPUNTIA's are sercon, x.1 issues are reviewzines, x.2 issues are indexes, x.3 issues are apazines, and x.5 issues are perzines.

CHECKLIST OF PEER-REVIEWED JOURNALS

compiled by Dale Speirs

I have always been a firm believer in citing sources when publishing articles. The value of peer-reviewed literature has become increasingly obvious as the World Wide Web buries us under a flood of personal opinion masquerading as fact, or learned assurances from 14-year-olds hiding behind a nom-de-electron. Web sites are unreliable as citation sources because they may change or disappear by the time the reader goes to consult them, and are seldom peer-reviewed to assure quality of research.

This is not to say that I am a neo-Luddite in matters Internet. Publishers of peer-reviewed journals have Web sites, and make back issues available on-line in full to subscribers and abstracts only to browsers. This has helped speed up my research considerably. I use the University of Calgary Library computers, and because they subscribe to most publisher databases, I can read the full article. If you, the reader, don't have access to the full journal, at least the citation will give you an abstract that summarizes the article. These journals are print journals; the text is permanent and thus can be cited.

Most publishers provide free e-mail alerts of tables of contents, enabling one to keep up with new issues. For most of these journals, only abstracts are available without subscription. Links may not go directly to journal; sometimes you will have to click through society or publisher home page or scroll down to actual link. Some sites, such as the Cambridge University Press, also require free registration before access is allowed.

This checklist covers only the areas that I am interested in. If you are interested in other topics, you can go to the publishers' home pages and follow the links through to their listings of journals by subject or alphabetical order.
